Hello,

My name is Matt Loftus and I am an attorney working for Fish & Richardson, a law firm in the US that writes up patent applications for Intel. I have received your invention disclosure for the "WAP Device Manager - Management of Intel Network Equipment from a WAP supporting cellular" and will be writing a US patent application. There are several preliminary matters that I need to resolve before beginning:

[REDACTED] — Which of you should be my primary contact for information concerning this invention? What is your preferred method of communication? I am using email initially because I don't think I have useable phone numbers. The disclosure lists some American-looking numbers but I think these are internal Intel numbers.

This should be sufficient to get started. If either of you have any questions, please call or email me. Thank you.

Best Regards,
